LET'S NOT KID OURSELVES

Plain bred, average quality cattle under indifferent management are as out of place in modern beef production as is a cracker barrel at your neighborhood Supermarket. That's why — when you're starting a herd or making plans to improve the one you already have — it's important to insist on excellence in herd sires and in foundation females.

Because of these facts, it's a pleasure to recommend this sale offering to you. Homer Humphrey has always been a cowman and a good caretaker, paying attention to the many, many small details that all go with good animal husbandry. Within the past two years he has put together an excellent group of breeding cows that carry top pedigrees and have produced the kind of calves that have breeding and profit potential.

Four of the five bulls he is selling are definitely herd headers. They are burly, heavy-boned, well-developed individuals with lots of scale, size and substance. They are out of good cows with wonderful breeding backgrounds. In several instances, their dams sell in this sale.

Other business interests make it necessary for him to sell every Short-horn he owns at this time and, because he had only 45 head, he has asked a neighbor, Earl Stoffer, to consign 11 Mercury-bred females, all with calves at foot, or close to calving.

Here's a sale you can well afford to travel considerable distance to attend.
